Accenture Strategy & Consulting

Dear Hiring Team,

I am applying for the Strategy Analyst Graduate Position because the role sits exactly at the intersection that motivates me most: strategy, technology, and business transformation. Throughout my studies and student roles, I have been drawn to questions around how organizations define technology priorities, build practical business cases, and translate strategic ambitions into concrete change. What especially attracts me to Accenture Strategy is the possibility to contribute to high-impact projects while developing across both business strategy and technology-oriented problem solving.

In my current role at Columbus, I support strategy and transformation-related work by conducting market research, structuring insights for presentations, and contributing to early business cases for digital initiatives. Combined with my earlier experience from JYSK, where I worked with process improvement and cross-market coordination, this has strengthened my ability to move between analysis and execution. I enjoy synthesizing complex information, creating clarity for stakeholders, and contributing to actionable plans rather than abstract recommendations.

My academic profile has given me a strong foundation in digital business, data-driven analysis, and technology-enabled business models. At the same time, I have intentionally sought roles where I could build a broader consulting toolkit, including workshop preparation, stakeholder interviewing, and translating technical opportunities into business language. This is also why I would be particularly interested in being considered for Technology Strategy & Advisory and Data & AI, where I believe my profile can contribute while continuing to develop.

I am motivated by steep learning curves, collaborative problem solving, and environments where high standards are combined with strong teamwork. I would value the opportunity to contribute to Accenture's Nordic Strategy community and to continue developing into a consultant who can bridge strategy and technology in a practical, client-oriented way.

Kind regards,

Andreas Holmgaard
