Accenture Strategy & Consulting

Dear Hiring Team,

I am applying for the Strategy Analyst Graduate Position because I am motivated by strategic questions where industry dynamics, operational complexity, and technology development all matter at the same time. My interest in strategy has grown through work and studies focused on supply chain and operations, where I have seen how competitive advantage increasingly depends on the ability to combine analytical discipline with transformation capability. This makes the role at Accenture Strategy highly attractive to me.

In my current role at Maersk, I support analysis related to cost, network, and service trade-offs in a global context, and in earlier roles I have worked with data collection, workshop support, and improvement initiatives in large organizations. These experiences have helped me build a strong appreciation for the fact that strategy only becomes relevant when it is grounded in real operational and market conditions. I enjoy working with this connection between big-picture direction and practical business realities.

My academic profile has given me a strong base in operations, analytics, and strategic thinking, and I have consistently looked for opportunities to apply that knowledge in collaborative, project-based settings. I am particularly energized by problem solving in teams, by fast learning environments, and by work that requires both analytical depth and a commercial perspective.

If possible, I would be especially interested in being considered for Industry Strategy. I believe my profile would be relevant in projects involving transformation, efficiency improvements, and strategic decision-making in industry settings, and I would be excited by the opportunity to continue developing in Accenture's Nordic Strategy community.

Kind regards,

Simon Hesselberg
